HOW THEY STAND TODAY.

Mrs. Randle is in first place in the most popular lady on the rural routes contests, polling the unprecedented total of over 25,000 votes today, which gives her the largest total vote of any candidate in either of the contests. Mr. J. W. Harris, of the county, polled over 19,000 votes and takes first place in his contest.

The voting the balance of this month will be very heavy as the candidates and their friends are working hard to get in all the subscriptions possible and get the benefit of the extra value attached to subscriptions paid in this month.

Everyone is entitled to a vote in each of these contests. All you have to do is to fill out the ballots to be found in each issue of The Sun and send them in. You will note that the ballots have a time limit—must be voted within a week of the date thereon.

Special coupons of votes will be issued for payments on subscriptions, and we would call everyone's attention to the fact that subscriptions paid now are worth double what they will be worth in March. For instance: 40c will pay for The Sun one month and entitle you to 80 votes, if paid now. The same subscription paid in March will entitle you to only 40 votes. A year's subscription, $4.50, will entitle you to 1100 votes, if paid now; in March, if you wait it will be worth only 500 votes. Thus you see the wisdom of sending in your subscriptions early.

The piano is "The Valley Gem," sold by W. T. Miller, and is one of the best pianos he sells. It is valued at $250.

The watch for the first contest is on exhibition at Nagel & Meyer's, for the second at J. L. Wolff's, for the third contest, at Warren & Warren's.

The buggy for the most popular man in the county, is one Powell & Rogers sell for $65, and can be seen at their place of business.

WRITTEN AT RANDOM.

A local physician is authority for the assertion that a patient's imagination is one of the greatest factors in effecting a cure of most diseases, especially in treating indigestion.

"You have heard of people who chew their food twice as long as ordinarily and dieting," he explained, "and that is all well and good, but the way I treat indigestion is a little different, but I make them do the chewing act just the same."

"I first prepare some little sugar pellets and make them appear as medicine-like as possible; caution against taking too many and above all beg that the greatest of care be taken in eating just such food as to promote indigestion, because this is what a patient generally wants—that which hurts him most. After I have had my patient on this treatment for a few days and he shows little improvement, I advise him to chew more and eat more slowly. When I gradually get him to adopt my treatment and it is all done little by little, he steadily improves until a permanent cure is effected. I used nothing but pure sugar pills and my patient cured himself principally through imagination."

People who have pride enough to attempt to keep domestic unpleasantness confined to their homes and families rarely ever come under the observation of the police, but those who fight, pull hair, and quarrel usually end in police court.

It is not always that such cases end in police court, however, for sometimes the police are able to patch up things. A few afternoons ago when Officers Johnson and Hessian, of the Broadway beat, were at the city hall waiting for orders the telephone rang and Officer Hessian answered it. Some one wanted a policeman a few blocks away and urged the greatest haste. The person telephoning was a woman and seemed to be excited. The officers hastened to the number to find it a family quarrel.

The divorced husband had come to his former wife's house to attempt to secure a trunk and other belongings of his dead mother. He had incidentally learned that his mother had sold some property and accused the wife of having the money. The wife alleged that she had drawn the money out of the bank and paid it out for funeral expenses, and as to the trunk and other few articles the mother had left them to her and she didn't intend to give them up. The husband insisted on taking the articles by force when she called the officers. The entire story was recited on the front porch in full view of the inquisitive eyes of the neighbors and after the husband on the outside had concluded speaking, the woman thrust her head out of the door and said she wanted to have a little to say "now that some one else had done some talking." The officers had to return to the house and let the woman give her side. The policemen finally persuaded the man to leave and thus the case was kept out of police court.

A young man of the city who traveled over the south last summer, worked but one or two days at hard three dollars in his pockets and returned with over a hundred. He was studying electricity and conceived the idea to secure a supply of blue stone and soap and etch names on knives and tools. He was a pretty good penman and this helped him a great deal in this work.

The first town he struck was a river town of only a few thousand inhabitants but boasted of dry docks for boat repairing. He went down to the docks and made known his business. The young man was penniless, for he had spent his last cent for a railroad ticket. He smeared green soap on a knife blade, took a small steel stylus and wrote in good flowing hand the name of the owner. He next poured the vitriol water, which is made by pouring water over a few lumps of blue stone and dissolved, over the blade and let it remain until the acid had eaten into the steel. The soap kept the acid from eating the other part of the blade, and pretty soon the name was deeply etched in steel. The young man got ten cents for it and so good was the work that he soon had saws, hammers, chisels and planes to etch and the first day's work brought him in $7.30. He jumped from town to town working when he could at this business and at times had as much as $10 made from this alone. He finally made his way to the fair in St. Louis and worked there long enough to make over a hundred dollars, and then came back home. He saw the south, attended the fair and then came back with funds.

Many boys who have talents in other lines adopt other means of travel just as unique. One youngster from a neighboring town ran away from school and being ashamed to send home for money, put his artistic talents to good use. He secured some large pads of paper, rigged up an easel and started sketching profiles from life on the corners. He charged 15 to 25 cents a picture and worked his way through the west this way, returning with a neat little sum he had saved.

A young man who worked for years for a transfer company has a great deal of insight and can size up the "small potato" at sight.

"The minute I see a drummer get into one of my hacks or 'bus,'" he said, "I can tell as soon as he begins to talk just about what caliber he is, where he came from and what he has been used to. It generally starts by some slight remark about the bus service of the transfer company or railroad, the bum 'bus' or poor horses and the hotel, and ending in several very vicious kicks in general. You can put it down that this man never rode in anything better in his life, and is only trying to create an impression of superiority. I find these kind of people generally travel for $50 or $60 dollars a month and make only the smallest towns. The drummer who really does get about, appreciates a good thing and says little. It shows good breeding not to comment on any kind of service whether good or bad, but the 'small potato' always finds fault."

Theatrical people who travel over the country have hobbies, many leave some mark to show that they had played in certain theaters on such a date, and on return trip will seek it out and mark the second date under it. In some theaters the walls of dressing rooms are filled with names, addresses and pictures drawn by some actors who also have talent in the illustrating line.

Another hobby of theatrical people is to mark pictures and names on scores of operas. Every good show has complete scores for the orchestra and the books are some time carried over the country several seasons and marked in by musicians in hundreds of towns ranging from large cities to small places of only a few thousand inhabitants.

Some opera scores have been so badly "cut" and marked with pictures that they had to be sent in and new scores arranged. Verses of some merit are sometimes found in orchestra score books and good cartoons and caricatures of actors can also be occasionally seen. This work is done while the musician has a "tact" passage which gives him time to draw or write. The musician in the play house generally tires of shows and will not take the trouble to rise out of his chair to peer over the footlights, so he must amuse himself in some way and does so by composing verses, writing addresses, dates or drawing pictures. Some scores are curiosities and have been preserved by the managers because of the many designs, drawings and verses written on them.

TROUBLES OF THE BASEBALL LEAGUES

Baseball conditions are not as healthy as stereotyped statements of major and minor league officials would indicate, says the St. Louis News. Every circuit has its weak links, and two or more clubs in every league are looking to 1905 to recoup financial losses incurred in the last year. And in most instances they depend more upon luck than labor for the accomplishment of that purpose. Retrenchment in expenses is as essential to prosperity for professional baseball as well equipped and nicely balanced teams. The business department of the game has not kept pace with its artistic strides, and successive races result in the rich clubs adding to their wealth and the burdens of poor clubs increasing with each season. Long pennant races and excessive pay rolls account for the failure of all major league clubs to realize a profit, and failure to observe the salary limit prescribed for each classification accounts for the financial difficulties of the second division clubs of the minor league. Reduction in operating expenses has been made by individual clubs in many leagues, but professional baseball will not be placed on a business basis until there is unity of action. There is no salary limit in either major league and the first division clubs of 1904 will be conducted next season at but a slight reduction in expense as compared to 1903. The partnership phase of baseball does not appeal to clubs which declare a dividend.

As a rule the most desirable graduates of the minor leagues are secured by major league clubs which were contenders in the previous year, and the weaker teams divide the that is left. The game's prosperity is not due to the methods of these engaged in it as a business, but to the inherent popularity of the pastime. The second division clubs are seldom accorded consideration when stronger clubs dispose of first-class players, but as a rule they are transferred to a club with pennant prospects and a bank roll. Selfish baseball is almost as harmful as the syndicate system of conducting leagues. Players who would strengthen second division teams are kept in idleness on the benches by contenders for the championship or farmed to minor league clubs in violation of the national agreement.

Prohibitive prices are put on the releases of extra men, and if claim on them is not waived their salaries are paid without any return in service. When league officials are asked why such conditions are permitted, the answer is that the weak major league clubs refuse to pay as much for talent that will strengthen them as minor league clubs. The truth is that the deals between major league clubs are on a cash basis and a majority of transactions between major and minor league clubs are bogus. The national commission has given its quasi approval to farming and the National Association at its recent meeting adopted an amendment to Section 2, of Article 6, legalizing farming and forbidding the return of a farm player to the club to which he legally belongs before the close of the season for which he is loaned. The National league refuses to place a limit upon the number of players its clubs carry and the American league does not live up to its legislation on the subject.

The National Association's representatives should insist that both the major leagues fix the complement of the team from May 15 to September 15. It is unfair to the weak clubs of a major league that a club should control players it cannot use, and also to the minor leagues which annually submit to the draft and should have the service of players not needed by the American or National leagues. If a reasonable restriction were imposed on the number of players in the major league club's service, the surplus would find employment on minor league teams. By May 15 the major league manager will have had sufficient time to get a line on his men and if mistakes are made, one club is just as liable to benefit as the other. The fear that a player may show improvement upon changing teams prevents club owners from making sales and influences them toward the farming practice. The more mistakes of this kind, the better for baseball.

The Boston National League club allowed Collins to go to Louisville in 1895 with the privilege of purchasing him at the close of the year. Useless to the Triumvirs' team, he became a star and drawing card with the tail-enders. The National League would have been the gainer had the sale of Collins been unconditional. Comparatively few major league players have not been released and many have given their best service after returning to a minor club.

CAN COME BACK.

Sam Sing, Chinaman Has the Necessary $1,000.

Government Inspector Plummer, who makes a business of investigating Chinese matters all over the country, and recently had local Chinamen arrested for being here contrary to law, was in the city last evening. He came to make an investigation of the possessions of Sam Sing, brother of Lin Sing, the Chinaman who died here recently, as no Chinaman is allowed to return to this country after going back to China unless he has at least $1,000 worth of property. Then he must return within a year. Inspector Plummer found that the Chinaman not only owns property in Memphis, but has several hundred dollars belonging to his dead brother's estate in Paducah.

MANY LIQUOR FIRMS SUED BY THE STATE

Eighty Six Suits Filed at Frankfort for the Fifty Cent Tax.

Among the Defendants Named Are Several of the Paducah Liquor Firms.

MANY THOUSAND ARE INVOLVED

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 23.—Petitions have been prepared and filed in the Franklin circuit court or state fiscal court against eighty-six firms or corporations of the state in which the commonwealth is plaintiff, and in which it is alleged that defendants are engaged in the business of rectifiers of spirits, and the prayer of the petition is that they be required to pay into the treasury the fifty cents a barrel license tax imposed by the Richardson act of the assembly session of 1904.

The suits are in the name of State Revenue Agent A. M. Harrison, of Lexington, and in each judgment for $5,000 license due on spirits, and $1,000 penalty of 25 per cent. fixed by law, is asked. The petitions were filed by Hazelrigg & Hazelrigg, of the local bar.

The cases will go on the docket for trial at the April term of the court. They are the result of the upholding of the Richardson law by Circuit Judge Stout at the January term of the state fiscal court. He held it to be constitutional and the defendants in that test case have appealed it to the court of appeals.

The Paducah firms sued are: Thompson, Wilson & Co., Loeb, Bloom & Co., H. Well & Sons, M. Livingston & Co., Dreyfuss & Well, Friedman, Keller & Co.

NEW MEMBERS

ARE BEING RAPIDLY ADDED TO COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Twelve Hundred Dollars a Year Wanted From Both City and County.

The membership of the Commercial club begins to grow more rapidly, and several more new members have been added during the past day or two.

The club, it is understood, will probably ask the city for an annual donation of $1,200, and fiscal court for a similar amount. The request of fiscal court will be made at the next regular meeting in April.

The organization has for its object only the upbuilding of the city and section, and in many places the city and county both give several thousand dollars towards its maintenance.

Yesterday the new members added to the club were the following: H. Diehl & Son, John K. Bonds, C. C. Lee, A. Rosenthal, A. W. Greff, W. C. Eubanks, J. C. Diemerst, G. W. Edwards, Riley & Cook, Agent J. W. Decker, of the Southern Express company, Marcus Solomon, L. E. Bebout, Fred J. McElwee, J. B. Gilbert, O. B. Schmidt, Kentucky Mill & Lumber company, Ed. C. ### FOUND A HOME.

Jimmie Wall Gets a Good Place in the Country.

Jimmie Wall, the 14-year-old boy who was driven from home by relatives near Kuttawa, has secured a home in the country with a farmer. City Jailor Evitts took the boy to his home last night and let him remain there until a home could be found. Jailor Evitts could not adopt him because he is too old, but got him a home.

The boy says he will work and remain with the farmer. Several farmers wanted to take him and there was no trouble experienced in securing a place for the little fellow.

INSPECTOR GANO CALLED AWAY AGAIN

After Resuming Wire Inspections He Gets Telegram.

Finds Not Many Changes—Three-Fourths of His Work Yet to Be Done Here.

WILL RETURN AGAIN SOON.

Mr. G. W. Gano, electrical inspector for the Kentucky and Tennessee board of underwriters, who has been here since Tuesday inspecting buildings, wiring, etc., has been called away, but will return as soon as possible.

He received a telegram last night calling him to Louisville to meet Sec. Claude Snyder, of the underwriters, and the two will go to Knoxville, Tenn., on business.

Mr. Gano is only about one-fourth finished in Paducah. He has simply gone over a portion of the work of Inspector Barrett, his predecessor, and finds that the changes ordered have not in many instances been made. He inspected only the north side of Broadway in the business section, and ordered rates raised on many risks because of defective wiring.

One prominent insurance man stated this morning that it will require a great deal of work and time in Paducah to straighten out the defective wiring. Little attention was paid to Paducah wiring until the fire losses caused insurance men to look around for the alleged causes, and the wiring was then found to be bad.

Mr. Gano left at noon for Louisville and will return to Paducah as soon as he has finished in Knoxville.

NOT TIED UP.

But Steamer Red River May Have to Pay Claim.

Commissioner W. A. Gardner yesterday issued papers against the steamer Red River, here waiting for the ice to run out so she can go to Birdsville and get a cargo of corn for Nashville, to secure an alleged claim for $5 placed by Pilot E. F. Carroll for services. A well known river man guaranteed payment of the claim and the boat was not tied up.

Today may be the one day of the whole year when a want ad. is printed which is of such direct, personal interest to you that to overlook it would be a calamity.

NOT FOR BEST FARM

In the State.

"I saw so much in the papers about the wonderful cures effected by Pyramid Pile Cure, I determined to give it a trial. I bought from my druggist one fifty-cent box, and used it as directed, and by the time I had used the last 'pyramid' I was entirely cured; in four days after I began to use the 'pyramids' all inflammation was gone. I was perfectly easy all the time, the excessive discharge stopped at once, and stools became easy and gentle.

"I was unable to get my own fire-wood for four months, and half the time when I could walk at all I had to walk half bent. I used many pile remedies, salves and ointments, all to no effect until I used one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure and was cured.

"I would not be afflicted as I was four months ago for the best farm in the state of Arkansas. I can give proof and reference of the wonderful cure to all who are afflicted as I was. Please publish my letter that I may advise the afflicted." W. E. Wallis, Pigot, Ark., Box 26.

The experience of Mr. Wallis is that of thousands of others who suffer for years with the most painful forms of hemorrhoids, or piles, and after trying everything they hear of, give up all hope of a cure and look for temporary relief only. To all such a little book published by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., brings glad tidings, as it tells all about the cause and cure of piles, and is sent free for the asking.

O O O O O O O O O O O O
O PADUCAH.
O
O O O O O O O O O O O

The Sun has received from Mr. John B. Day, a former resident of Paducah, but now of Bedford, New York, the following self-explanatory letter:

Bedford, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1905.

To the Editor of The Sun:
Sir: The death of Gen. Wallace has so refreshed my memory of my life in Paducah, that I thought I might write something of Gen. Wallace's life there that would interest your readers. I find instead there is only an old man's rambling. There may be something in it you would care to know, anyhow it can find a place in your waste basket as well as my own. Truly yours, (Signed) JOHN B. DAY.

Today's paper brings the news of Gen. Lew Wallace's death on the anniversary of his brilliant work at Ft. Donelson, where he checked and rolled back the victorious troops of Gen. Pillow. It would have been a barren victory but for him that day.

To the present generation he is only known as the writer of Ben Hur, to the Union soldier who knew him in Paducah during the winter of 1861 and '62 and later in active service, his death comes as a personal loss.

Our Battery "A" Chicago Light Artillery with the 9th and 12th Illinois Infantry was the force which under Gen. Grant entered Paducah September 6, 1861, and we remained there until the following February. Our life there was one protracted picnic and many a time in after days we wished ourselves back again. Paducah has a warm spot in the heart of each one of the few of us who are left. I have often in conversation made the statement that I had never before and have never since seen as many handsome women as I saw in Paducah.

Other troops rapidly followed us and under the discipline of that perfect soldier Gen. C. F. Smith, and his two able brigade commanders, Col. Lew Wallace of the 11th Indiana, and Col. Morgan L. Smith, of the 8th Missouri, the division became so efficient that in after days though widely scattered, they were always recognized in whatever army they were, as being the best in the command. There was only one event that occurred to mar our otherwise ideal life in Paducah, and of that we were so thoroughly ashamed that we tried to forget it by never mentioning it. I refer to the raising of the flag on Col. Woolfolk's house. Our battery took no active part in the proceedings but by being there and countenancing it, we were as guilty as those who did take an active part.

The incident could not be fresher in my mind if it had occurred yesterday instead of 43 years ago, and I can plainly see Gen. Wallace as he came walking from Gen. Smith's headquarters and mounting the fence beside the house and hear his tone of utter contempt as he said, "You have had your will, get back to your camps." The mob quickly and quietly disappeared.

The death of ambition is one of the tragedies of life—Success.

The Weather.

Cloudy and threatening with no decided change in temperature tonight and Friday.

WHY NOT HERE?

"In the columns of yesterday's papers there was an item carried by the Associated Press, telling of the arrest of fifty men in Chicago for spitting on the sidewalks," says the Lexington Herald. "This item was considered of sufficient importance by the greatest news gathering organization of the world to send all over the world, and we are confident that no item in the paper was read with more pleasure by thousands and tens of thousands of citizens of America than it was. If it means, as we believe it does, the beginning of similar action in every city in the country, it will make a change that will decrease annoyance, irritation, disgust and will do much to prevent the spread of disease and death.

"Why can not Lexington be the next city to follow the lead of Chicago, and let the Associated Press carry the news that, in Lexington, every man who so far forgets himself, who is so ignorant of the decencies of life as to spit on the sidewalk, is arrested and fined or put in the lockup. It will do more to attract favorable notice to Lexington than any one thing that can be done."

In this connection it might also be asked, Why not in Paducah? Why should street cars, halls and buildings, pavements, and other public places be allowed to remain so filthy? How long will it be until the people realize the danger of tolerating such unsanitary conditions? How long will it take for the people of Paducah to be convinced that connection with the sanitary sewerage, a clean yard and home, clean street cars and public buildings and such things, may save them or some one they care for, much illness—possibly save life itself?

To fine Dick Knott and the Louisville Post $500 for criticising a certain place of business in Louisville with the evidence produced by the defendants shows that saloons are regarded as important moral resorts in the city and that to say anything against them is an outrage and must not be tolerated. We regard the verdict as another outrage.—Mayfield Messenger. That's nothing, though. Here in Paducah when they want to arrest a saloon for keeping open on Sunday they go all the way to Mechanicsburg to do it.

There are signs of improvement

In Louisville since the big revival began. A man was actually given two years for murder the other day. Usually they give him a chrono.

PAUL JONES' GRAVE

IT IS LOCATED IN A FAR-AWAY PLACE.

Speech Made at Paris Yesterday by United States Ambassador.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The feature of Washington's birthday banquet of the America club was a speech by Ambassador Porter detailing the search he has prosecuted the last five years for the grave of the founder of the American navy, John Paul Jones.

The ambassador related a remarkable search made to determine the authentic grave of Jones. After long search it was finally made certain that the interment was in the now abandoned Saint Louis cemetery, the ground of which had been covered with buildings. A shaft was sunk seven feet and the bodies were found undisturbed. After difficult negotiations lasting over a year the proprietors and tenants gave options for the necessary excavations, whereupon estimates for the future cost of the investigation, amounting to $35,000, were recommended to congress by President Roosevelt. If the appropriation is refused Ambassador Porter explained that the options will lapse and it will be difficult to renew them.

In conclusion the ambassador said: "While other nations are gathering the ashes of their heroes in their pantheons, their Valhallas and their Westminster Abbeys, all that is mortal of this marvelous organizer of American victories upon the sea lies like an outcast in a squalid section of a distant city, in a neglected grave where it was placed by the hand of charity to keep it from the potters field. What was once consecrated ground is desecrated by vegetable gardens, a deposit for night soil and even burial of dogs. It is fitting that an effort be made to give him an appropriate sepulchre at last in the land of liberty which his efforts helped make free."

CITY PHYSICIAN.

Only Two Candidates Have Thus Far Announced.

So far there are but two candidates mentioned for city physician, Drs. Carl M. Sears and Johnston Bass.

There is some question as to whether the ordinance to be brought in prescribing the duties of the city physician will be affected by the decision regarding the management of the new city hospital, which is probably holding off some prospective candidates. If the city physician is made superintendent of the hospital, the salary will probably be increased and the office made more desirable.

ONE PROPOSITION MADE ASSOCIATION

Mundy Company's Representative Meet the Members.

The Contract Will Not Be Let Until Other Companies Are Heard From.

THE DATE NOT YET SETTLED

The Carnival Association met last night at Hotel Lagomarsino and heard the proposition from Mr. Ira Troube, representing the Mundy Carnival Co., but did not let the contract, as it desires to hear from others.

Mr. Troube arrived yesterday afternoon and submitted his proposition in writing. The association did not like some provisions in the proposition and will wait until other companies are heard from before closing.

The Parker Co. will send Mr. Edwards here but he has not yet arrived. The association also expects some one from the Famous Co., and will carefully consider all propositions. The Mundy company seems to be the most favored, however. It carries all new attractions, four being brought here from the old country, and carries its own electric light plant and enclosure.

One other matter the association is weighing is relative to the dates. If the Mundy Co. gets the contract the Paducah carnival will have to wait on the decision of Chattanooga before the week can be set. If Chattanooga accepts the second week in May, Paducah will have to take the third and if Chattanooga takes the third week, Paducah will get the second. The local association prefers the first week in May but must take what it can get.

Secretary Rodney Davis stated this morning that he had sent out telegrams and expects answers daily. He is looking into the different companies and examining everything minutely so the local association will know exactly what it is getting.

Chattanooga will decide Sunday what date she wants and this will be a factor in deciding if the Mundy Co. will be successful here.

It is hoped to have the contract decided on by Saturday, and the Gaskill-Ferrell company, which wrote today, was so informed, and is expected to be heard from by that time.

FEWER APPLY

For Aid Since Mild Weather Has Arrived.

Miss Cornie Grundy, secretary of the Charity club, has not been so busy since milder weather came as before and finds paupers are not suffering so much as during the extreme cold weather.

Miss Grundy is a keen observer and stated that paupers were crafty and when one received aid from the club or county, would spread the news to others and that there was a regular army of paupers in the county who did nothing but apply for aid.

THE NEW HOSPITAL COMMITTEE DECIDES

Will Hold a Meeting This Evening.

Name Selected is "Riverside"—Other Meetings Are to Be Held.

NEWS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

The matter of settling plans for the management and furnishing of the Riverside hospital will probably be settled tonight in the board of aldermen, but the council will have to act on the recommendation before they become law.

The doctors presented outlined plans for governing the hospital, the principal item being the board of managers. The doctors suggested that three doctors and two councilmen be appointed on the board, but now are willing to amend it by making it three councilmen and two doctors if the legislative board members desire. The committee has been instructed to report tonight and will do so.

It is not known what will be decided, but if the recommendations of the doctors as amended are concurred in by the aldermen, it will mean adoption by the lower board. Local physicians have been working hard to get the hospital in service and are urging that all preliminary work be finished as soon as possible.

In regard to furnishing the hospital, one doctor stated that he hoped the city would not put in cheap furnishings which would have to be taken out in a few years. The most economical plan which has been proven in every instance is to put in the best equipment and furnishings at the start and this is what the doctors will recommend.

This committee had nothing to do with the managing of the hospital, but is simply the one appointed some time ago to select and report a name.

The committee appointed to name new city hospital held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the city hall, and decided on the name "Riverside" for the new hospital. The committee consists of Drs. P. H. Stewart, J. G. Brooks, D. G. Murrell and Frank Boyd, and Chairman Barnett, of the councilmanic hospital committee, and President Ingram, of the board, and Chairman Farley, of the aldermanic hospital committee, and President Davis, of the board of aldermen.

Five votes were cast for the name "Riverside," two for "City Hospital" and one "Reuben Saunders" hospital. The name "McDonald" in honor of the celebrated practitioner, was suggested, but Riverside was the most popular. The action of the committee in selecting the name will be brought before the two boards for ratification.

Col. W. R. Poiglaase, of the American-Le Franz Fire Co., Chicago, will be here Saturday to confer with city officials relative to buying a new truck and fire chief's runabout. Mr. Poiglaase is well known in Paducah, having sold the city its chemical engine a few years ago as well as other fire apparatus.

The board of city supervisors may finish its work tomorrow and adjourn. The three supervisors are assisted by Mr. W. R. Holland, and the present outlook is for a completion of the work by tomorrow.

fer son to Kentucky, will be considered by the board of public works this afternoon. Separate ordinances will be drawn for the sidewalks, and the two legislative boards will then thresh out in session the final disposition of the improvements.

Tonight the board of aldermen will pass on the ordinance for improving Fifth street from Kentucky to Jackson. Originally it was proposed to pave it to Norton, but the aldermen defeated it, and the council has now changed it and provided for paving the street from Kentucky to Jackson.

The superintendent of the light plant reported that one of the armatures burned out recently has been rewound, but the plant is still running short because repairs on one of the boilers have not been completed.

The board deferred action on the plank walk from Sixth and George to Eighth and Bockmon streets, as some residents want it wide enough to admit the passage of teams.

President Ingram, of the Nashville Roofing and Paving Co., arrived last night on business. He is at the head of the concern that put down the bitulthie paving on Broadway, and is here on business. He expects to be a strong bidder for the improvements to be made this year. The small repairs that have to be made on Broadway before the city accepts the street will be completed as soon as good weather arrives.

The board of aldermen meets tonight and the greater part of the session will be taken up in considering business transacted by the council Monday night. The third street improvement ordinance cannot come up until the next regular meeting.

IN THE COURTS

Circuit Court.

No circuit court was held today on account of Circuit Judge Reed being out of the city.

There remains little to be done in this court and the term will in all probability end tomorrow when Judge Reed returns.

The next criminal court will begin the first Monday in April. Judge Reed cleaned up the criminal docket with few cases excepted last term and the cases to come before him this time are principally cases where the alleged crimes have been committed since the December term.

Goes to Asylum.

Liza Boyd, colored, was yesterday afternoon adjudged a lunatic in circuit court and tonight will be taken to the Hopkinsville asylum by Patrol Driver John Austin.

County Court.

Deeds.

R. F. Wright deeds to Wm. Janes power of attorney.

Amended Articles Filed.

Amended articles of incorporation of the Fowler-Wolfe Sheet Metal works were filed this afternoon. The capital stock is increased from $5,000 to $15,000 and the stockholders take the following amount of the new stock: S. A. Fowler, 25 shares; W. J. Wolfe, 13, and E. C. Wolfe 12 shares.

Police Court.

The case for alleged criminal assault against E. J. Trail, the barber, preferred by Mrs. Ramie Bradford, fell through in police court this morning with a dull thud. It developed at the trial that the woman may not be married to the man she claimed as her husband, and that her actions had not been as discreet in the past as they might have been. Judge Sanders promptly dismissed the warrant, and said he doubted the advisability of issuing it at the time, and so informed the couple when they came after it.

Tom Bates, colored, who assaulted C. N. Baker, of the Noah's Ark store last November, was fined another $100 and given 60 days in jail. He was fined several days ago for breaking into a house and striking at a girl with a chair. This makes a total of $200 in fines and 100 days in jail to serve.

Other cases were: Dan Carrell, white, $5 and costs for disorderly conduct; Pinkney Childers, white, $20 and costs for whipping Ada Hall; Lee Green and Jim Kyle, white, breach of the peace, continued.

Hopeless Muddle.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 23.—The troubles in Louisville military circles due to the conflict between Col. Biscoe Hindman of the First Kentucky and the officers of the regiment do not seem to be any nearer a settlement. As a result, Magistrate Shadburn, at the meeting of the fiscal court recommended that certain work on the new armory be held up until it is settled that Louisville is to have a regiment.

The trouble in the regiment was brought to a head when the officers asked Col. Hindman to resign, claiming that his usefulness was at an end, and that he had alienated his men. They also asserted that the regiment was not organized according to law and that therefore he was not legally the colonel, and never had been.

As a result of this a court of inquiry was ordered by the governor, and upon the recommendations of this court a number of mutinous officers accuse Col. Hindman of being over-fond of personal display and also of being ignorant of military affairs. Many of the officers have resigned, and the regiment seems in a hopeless muddle.

4,000 SAVED

IF CONVERSIONS IN LOUISVILLE COUNT FOR MUCH.

Yesterday a Day of Remarkable Scenes—45,000 Went to Church.

Louisville, Feb. 23.—Louisville is at present agitated by a remarkable religious movement. Thus far four thousand conversions have been announced, and it is confidently expected that the close of the services on Sunday next will find the number doubled. During the first week of the revival, which began Feb. 12, one thousand persons professed Christianity, and on Sunday last, which was Decision Day, three thousand more declared their faith.

But the most remarkable scenes were witnessed yesterday when the ministers in charge of the movement, taking advantage of the holiday, conducted a day of prayer at the twenty-four points where revival services have been in progress. Many business houses and factories closed, some for an hour or two, and some for half a day, at the request of the ministers. It was a common spectacle during the noon hour to see grave business men and their clerks scurrying along the streets, throwing their luncheons from their hands in order to have more time for the prayer service. Thousands of employees who had but the noon hour to spare took their lunch boxes to the churches. The attendance figures show that 45,000 people, or one-fifth of Louisville's population, attended the services, and at many points large numbers were turned away. The attendance is the more remarkable in view of the fact that the meetings were held especially for busy workers and the women and home-staying portion of the city were requested to remain at home.

A CRANK

Attempted to Get Too Near the President.

Washington, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt and party returned from Philadelphia last night.

The president apparently was not annoyed by an incident which occurred in Philadelphia while he was driving from the Academy of Music to the Armory, where he was the guest of the city troop at luncheon.

Before the presidential party reached the city troop armory an unknown man dashed into the street and got within eight or ten feet of the president's carriage. There he was struck with the flat of a sabre by one of the troopers who surrounded the president's carriage, and checked by the force of the blow, he staggered back and was lost sight of in the crowd.

The man appeared to be a laborer. Those who witnessed the incident believe he merely sought to shake hands with the president. He had run parallel with the carriages for over a block and secret service agent Tyree, who rode with the president, had ordered him to get out of the way. Tyree finally called to a trooper who quickly drew his sabre and as the man refused to stop, struck him a blow on the back.

Niagara Power House Damaged.

Niagara Falls, Feb. 23.—Fire seriously damaged Power House No. 1, of the Niagara Falls Power Co., this morning. It was caused by a short circuit and the electric light system of the city, and the street railway are out of commission. The damage can not now be estimated. Three men were terribly burned and one may die.

Sponsor For Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 23.—Gen. George W. Gordon, commanding the Tennessee division, United Confederate Veterans, has appointed Miss Kate W. Chadwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Chadwell, of Nashville, sponsor for the Tennessee division at the Louisville reunion. Miss Marie Louise Love, of Nashville, will be her maid of honor, and Mrs. John P. Hickman, official chaperon.

From the Polkville (Ark.) Clarion.

The debating Society discussed the case at considerable length, night before last—during which no one was shot, and only two gentlemen thrown out—and ultimately exonerated the late Nero from the charge of fiddling while Rome was burning. Truly, the mills of the gods grind slowly, but they invariably arrive with the goods. —Puck.

In 1904 the free delivery mail carrier system of the United States employed 20,761 persons in towns and cities, and 24,566 on rural routes.

Theatrical Notes

The last two season's big success, "A Little Outcast," which comes to The Kentucky for matinee and night next Saturday, is a revelation to theater goers in the way of scenic equipment, novel devices and original incidents.

The chief role is in the hands of Thomas Krueger, the established favorite, who has reached the top notch of popularity by his clever work in this latest role. His part

MISS MARIE LA BRAHY
Leading Lady in "A Little Outcast,"
At The Kentucky Matinee and

suits him admirably and gives a large scope for some clever work in his latest role and gives a large scope for some of the most powerful dramatic work Mr. Krueger has ever done.

Little Beatrice Sherbrook, as "Bob," a precocious newsboy, gives a delightful characteristic portrayal of the part, for while looking and acting the part of the child to perfection, her acting is distinguished by an appreciation of the dramatic value of the role. A company of exceptionally good people support these leading artists and "A Little Outcast" is winning the unqualified approval of press and public.

One of the most delightful entertainments of the age will be presented at The Kentucky on Friday night. The attraction is Lyman H. Howe's latest exhibition of moving pictures.

A pleasing feature of this entertainment is the careful reproduction of the natural sounds as they would emanate from the real scenes. The crack of firearms, the puffing of engines, the cheering of multitudes, the shouts of individuals and all other sounds are so cleverly imitated that the scenes impress the mind the same as if viewing them in reality.

Very soon Marie Wainwright will be here in "Twelfth Night" and Richard Mansfield in "Ivan the Terrible." Both are stage celebrities who will pack the house.

Percy A. Fennimore in advance of "The Girl from Kays" one of the largest musical comedies on the road, is at Hotel Lagomarsino. The show is here next week.

Manager English hopes to soon book Nat Goodwin for Paducah. He has not yet done so however.

"Buster Brown" is to come to Paducah this season it is now probable. In this Paducah theatergoers will have an opportunity to see the prima donna Miss Emaline Lackey Pruett daughter of a former Paducah dentist.

"A Chinese Honeymoon" had two large audiences at The Kentucky yesterday and proved a delightful treat. While the company is possibly not up to the one of last season, it is a good one, and the various principals were adequate in every way and the chorus and costuming, as well as scenery, were very fine. The musical numbers were repeatedly encored and the "Honeymoon" can always be sure of a good patronage in Paducah. There were several theater parties out last night.

FATHER KILLED.

But His Son, Also Condemned, Escaped.

Belgrade, Feb. 23.—M. Petussa, the Serbian land proprietor sentenced to death sometime ago by the revolutionists, was assassinated today. The death sentence also including Petussa's son, but he escaped.

Swayne Case Nearly Over.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The senate sitting as a court of impeachment in the Swayne case, has perfected arrangements for closing the trial and is looking to a final vote by Saturday.

HOW YOU CAN TELL GENUINE DIAMONDS

If you doubt the genuineness of your diamond, or stones which you contemplate purchasing, it is not necessary to submit them to an expert—by studying the following methods of testing the gems you may become your own expert.

For the first lesson, take a real diamond and an imitation. Drop them in glasses of water. The imitation will blend with the water and become almost invisible, while the real one will be distinctly visible, shining out whitely through the liquid. Dry and clean the two stones and on the flat side of each put a tiny drop of water. On the real the drop will hold its globular form and can be led about with a pin point. The drop on the glass one will spread.

Study the two stones with a magnifying glass. The facets of the false one are even and regular. On the other they are of varying sizes. The reason for this is that a diamond cutter with a gem will sacrifice symmetry to weight, preferring to leave some slight irregularities in the planes and edges than to reduce the stone's value. The material in a false stone being of little value, the cutter makes as finished a job as he can of it, the appearance counting for more than the stone itself.

If a real diamond be used as a miniature reading glass, aided by a large magnifying glass, a tiny dot on paper appears clear and clean. Substitute the false stone, and several points, or one badly broken one, will be seen, owing to unequal refraction.

Then you can try the familiar experiment of scratching a sheet of glass. Because your stone will scratch does not prove its genuineness, however. Try to break the glass evenly on the scratch. No other stone can cut through the outer skin of a sheet of glass and give certainty to an even fracture like a diamond.

Your true diamond is proof against the hardest file, but the instrument will easily scratch any imitation that has even been made.

Having scratched your pretty bit of glass till it is worthless, drop it and the diamond into hydrofluoric acid. Before long the glass will be dissolved, but the diamond will suffer not at all.

Then there is still another experiment. Take a bit of stuff with red and white markings, pass the stone to be tested over it, and closely observe the results. If the stone be an imitation the colors will be distinguishable through it; if it be a diamond no difference of color will be appreciable.

A genuine diamond rubbed upon wood or metal, after having been previously subjected to the rays of this electric arc, becomes phosphorescent in the dark; this cannot be said of any of the imitations. If the stone to be tried be covered with borax paste, and after being well heated in the alcohol flame, dropped into glasses of water, the proof will be instantaneous. The glass imitation will fly into bits, while the genuine stone will not be affected. Finally, try to crush between two hard plates a diamond and an imitation and learn the difference.

After the diamond, the sapphire is the hardest stone; with her more beautiful sister, she possesses also the quality of resisting the attacks of the fire, but she is, however, cloudy in appearance and of a milky hue. The topaz is slightly yellowish and surrenders to the cutting teeth of the file. There are a great number of white diamonds, but a pure, clear, transparent stone without a shade of color is more rare than is often supposed.

Besides white diamonds, there are some which exhibit the shades of red, blue, green, yellow, brown, black and pink. Heats sometimes causes a diamond to change its color, and after a time the color thus acquired becomes permanent. Yellow diamonds, or those commonly denominated "off color," furnish the greatest variety of shades and some of them exceed in beauty all other stones of that color.

Specimens of canary-colored diamonds are by no means rare. They may almost be said to be common. A pink or rose-colored diamond is of great value, and the red diamond, surpassing the ruby in its magnificent coloring, is considered the most beautiful of all the precious stones, being exceedingly rare. The one bought by Paul, czar of Russia, weighed 10 carats and cost him two and one-half million francs. A perfectly black diamond is almost as rare as a red one.

For beauty the blue stone comes directly after the red diamonds. Those possessing the deep blue, and in this respect resembling the sapphire, are indeed most beautiful gems, differing from the sapphire only in quality and by the magnificent fiery colors peculiar to the diamond. The only true blue diamonds come from the mines in India. The varieties of green are not so rare as the blues, reds, blacks and pinks, but those of grass green hue like the beautiful emerald are seldom found. Where they do exist, however, they surpass in brilliancy the finest emerald.

In place of the Brazilian diamond, which of late years has become quite scarce, Cape diamonds of much inferior value and brilliancy are often sold. To be able to distinguish between these gems is an accomplishment possessed by the few.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE road between Oxford and Banbury is the most peaceful of thoroughfares, laid with reasonable directness, gently undulating in parts, passing through quiet villages and a sweet country, mildly beautiful, yet to the mind of Frances Wentworth this innocent highway ever remained, as it were, a section of the broad path to perdition. In after life she never thought of it but with a creepy sensation of horror.

Responsibility seemed to be the portion of William Armstrong as well as of his fair companion. She surmised that he was pondering on the events which had happened when their faces were set south over this course, and in part she was right, but the thoughts which rankled in his mind were those implanted by De Courcy, and the wily Frenchman had been accurate enough in his belief that the young man's pleasure in the northward journey would be spoiled. He could not bring himself to ask any explanation from the girl, nor even tell her what De Courcy had said, for he saw that already a weight of woe oppressed her and to that burden he would not add a pressure of the slightest word.

He possessed a supreme confidence in her and only feared that she had loved this runaway once and that some remnant of this long ago affection still remained. Her own words before they reached Oxford, her own action during the encounter fronting the Crown Inn, disturbed him far more than the insinuations of the Frenchman. He strove to rid himself of these thoughts, but they were very intrusive and persistent. At last with an effort he roused himself and cried with feigned hilarity:

"Frances, we travel like two mutes. The influence of saddened Oxford is still upon us both. We are long out of sight of the town, so let us be done with all remembrance of it. The meeting with the king this morning has stirred me up to a great pity for him, but vexed meditations on his case are no help either to him or to us. The spur is the only weapon I can wield for him now, so let us gallop and cry, 'God save the king!'"

With that they raced together for a time and were the better of it. He had become almost cheerful again when the spires of Banbury came into view, and thanked fortune that the first stage of their march was safely over.

They found old John and his pack horse both ready for the road again, and Armstrong was plainly loath to let such a fine evening slip by without further progress, but Frances seemed so wan and worn that he had not the heart to propose a more distant stopping place, and, with a sigh, he put up his horse for the night.

While he was gone the innkeeper came furtively to Frances, and, after seeing the pass, led her to the prepared room and showed her the door.

Much against her will, Armstrong insisted upon her coming to supper with him, although she protested she had no appetite, and indeed sat opposite him forlorn and could not touch a morsel. In vain he urged her to eat, but she shook her head, avoiding his glance and keeping her eyes downcast.

"My girl," he said anxiously, "you are completely tired. I see that you are on the point of being ill if better care is not taken. Rest here a few days, I beg of you. Eager as I am to be forward, I will stay if you wish to have me near you, or I will push on and come back for you."

"I shall be well enough in the morning, most like. I am tired tonight."

"And dispirited too."

"Yes, and dispirited. You will excuse me, I know."

Frances rose to her feet, but seemed so faint that she leaned against the table for support. He was by her side at once.

"My sweet lass, I am so sorry for you. Tell me what I can do for you and on my soul my life is yours if you require it."

"No, no! Heaven grant you take no hurt for my sake."

He slipped his arm about her waist and would have drawn her toward him, but with more strength than he had expected her to possess she held away. His great love for her almost overcame him and all the prudence he had gathered was scattered suddenly to the winds. "Dear, dear lass, one touch of our lips and see if all doubts do not dissolve before the contact."

Now she wrenched herself free and would have escaped but that he sprang forward and caught her by the wrists, a grip she was to remember later in the night. In spite of this, her hands were raised to the sides of her face and a look of such terror shot from her eyes that he feared some madness had come upon her.

"Not that! Not that!" she shrieked. "The kiss of Judas! It would kill me!"

His arms dropped paralyzed to his sides and he stepped back a pace, amazed at the expression she had used and the terror of her utterance. Next instant he was alone and the closed door between them. Still he stood where she had left him.

"The kiss of Judas!" he muttered. "The kiss of Judas! She loves him, thinks me his friend, trying to take Judas advantage of him because we are alone together. De Courcy spoke truth. Woe is me, she loves him, and I, blind fool—O God, pity that poor girl and this insanity of passion wasted on so rank a cur!"

Frances fled to her room and threw herself on the bed in an agony of tears. This storm subsided into a gentle rain of subdued weeping and finally ceased as she heard the heavy tramp of riding boots in the adjoining room. She sat up in the darkness, listening intently. He closed the wooden shutters of the window, shaking them to be sure that their fastenings were secure. Then the bolts of the outer door were thrust into their places, but this apparently failing to satisfy the doubts of the inmate, there was a sound of some heavy article of furniture being dragged across the room; then the tramping ceased and all was still. Unheeding she heard the clock in a neighboring tower toll the hour; now it struck again and she counted the notes. Eleven! It was still too early. People slept heavier as the night wore on. One, two, three, four, five, six, seven! It must be midnight, and the first five strokes had been on Cromwell's breastplate. She roused herself and attempted to take off her shoes, but her hands were trembling and so she was forced to desist. She sat up again, telling herself it was better to wait until all effect of the long chiming had ceased, for the striking of twelve sometimes disturbed or awakened the soundest sleeper. The clock tower seemed dangerously near, as if it were approaching her hour by hour. At last the shoes came off, and in stocking feet she stood by the secret door, waiting till the frightfully rapid beating of her heart should moderate. It threatened to choke her. Then she slid back the bar and drew open the door, all so smoothly oiled that there was not the whisper of a creak. She tiptoed into the cavern of blackness and silence, holding her spread hands in front of her, moving slowly, with the utmost caution, step by step.

In her mind she had estimated, from her earlier survey of the room, that nine steps would take her to the bed. Now she realized she had taken a dozen and yet had not come to it. She stood bewildered and listened. The helplessness of a person in the pitch dark thrilled her with a new fear, upsetting all her calculations. The panic of pulsation in her throat and in her ears at first rendered any attempt at listening futile, but at last she heard his regular breathing, as peaceful as that of an infant, and it came from the other side of the room. For a moment this terrified her and she wondered if she were really awake or in the mazes of some badling nightmare, but the solution came to her mind and quieted the growing agitation. It had been his bed that he had dragged across the floor, and he was now sleeping against the outside door. She changed her direction and, with her former stealth, came ghostlike to the edge of the couch.

His doublet was open at the throat; that was so much to the good. Like a snowflake in its coldness and its lightness her hand stole down underneath his vest, fluttered by the slow, steady, subdued beating of his heart, running no such wild race as her own at that moment. It seemed incredible that at last her fingers closed on the parchment, but there it lay, and gently she drew it forth. Was the robbery to be so easily accomplished after all? Ah, she had congratulated herself too soon. It stuck fast. Either the silken cord that bound it was caught or the document was secured to the vest, a contingency she had never thought of, and yet what more natural? Twice she tugged it gently, then a third time more strenuously, when it came unexpectedly away and her knuckles struck the sleeper under the chin. Instantly, like the snap of a steel trap, his fingers closed upon her wrist, and his voice rang out as wide awake and clear as ever he had spoken to her:

"Frances!"

Now the racing heart stopped dead. Lucky for her that at this supreme moment all action was impossible and that she was stricken into frozen marble. She imagined he was awake and knew her, and then the cold horror of her situation numbed thought at its source.

"Frances!" The voice came more sleepily this time, and he repeated thrice, very rapidly, "Frances, Frances, Frances!" Feebly her heart had taken up its work again. She was not to die as she had feared. Sudden with drowsiness, his voice rumbled on. Then the words became indistinct and died away. But alas, the grip of iron remained on her wrist. For a long time she stood there motionless, then tried to disengage his fingers gently, but at the first movement the grasp tightened again. One o'clock struck. He slept so silently that it began to appear to her agitated brain that she was a prisoner of the dead. She came near to sinking from very weariness. Two o'clock tolled from the tower. Sometimes she fancied she slept standing there, but her five fingers did not sleep. She kept wondering in which direction lay the open door, for at times the room seemed to swim around her, thus disturbing all sense of locality. She almost laughed aloud when she thought of herself free, but groping helplessly for the open door, failing to find it, and she shuddered that even the remembrance of laughter should come to her at such a time. Surely a sign of approaching frenzy.

Then it seemed the fingers loosened, but hand and wrist had lost all feeling, and she could not be sure. She tottered and nearly fell. When she stood upright again she was free; he muttered to himself and his hand slashing undirected on the mattress as if it missed something it sought drunkenly to recover. The girl could scarce repress a cry of joy at her release. She moved eagerly in the path that should lead her to the door, but, hurrying too much, came upon his jackboots on the floor and fell helplessly, so overwrought that even when her feet touched there she could not draw back.

"Who's there? Who's in this room?" cried Armstrong. She was standing again, fully expecting to hear his feet on the floor, but the bell struck three, and he counted dreamily and all was still again. When she reached her room she closed and barred the door as silently as she had opened it. The tension relaxed, she felt she was going to swoon. Blindly she groped for her shoes, murmuring, "O God, not yet—not yet! Give me a moment more."

Finding her footgear at last she dared not wait to put them on, but stole softly down the stair, steadying herself against the wall. The cool air outside struck her like the blessing of God and soothed her whirling head. She heard a horse champing his bit, then a whisper came out of the darkness:

"Is that you at last, madam?"

"Yes," she said, sinking on the doorstep and leaning her head against the lintel, the cold stone grateful to her hot forehead.

"You are not hurt, madam?" inquired the man anxiously.

"No, no," she gasped, then, with an edrith little laugh, "I want to put on my shoes, that's all."

Itch—Ringworm.

E. T. Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes April 25th, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I had been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable; I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of, besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me completely and permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions for ringworm and it cured completely. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottle. DuBois, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

A letter this afternoon from Miss Aline Bagby states that her company has cancelled its Memphis engagement, and is booked instead for Owensboro, Bowling Green, Henderson, Madisonville and Evansville, in addition to Paducah.

MANY TIES

WILL BE CARRIED AWAY BY THE RISING RIVERS.

They Are on the Banks of the Ohio Below New Albany.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 23.—Scattered along the banks of the Ohio river for a distance of 100 miles below New Albany there are 1,500,000 railway cross ties, many of which will be lost should there come a high tide in the river while it is filled with ice. Precautions have been taken by the owners to protect the property as much as practicable. Thousands of ties had been loaded on barges preparatory to being towed to New Albany for shipment by rail to the Northwest, but were delayed in starting by the ice. These barges have since, whenever possible, been run into the small streams, to remain there until the ice clears from the Ohio river.

Three months ago the Pennsylvania, B. and O. S. W., Big Four and other railway corporations contracted with Southern Indiana dealers for the delivery of over 3,000,000 cross ties. Since then hundreds of men have been busy in the hills of the river counties of Southern Indiana cutting the ties, while an equally large force, with scores of teams, has been hauling them to the river bank for shipment to New Albany, the distributing point, where the ties are loaded on cars for shipment to the various railroads purchasing them. These ties represent an outlay of nearly $2,000,000 and they are to be delivered as rapidly as possible.

Croup

Begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup (the child will cry for it) and at the first sign of a croupy cough, apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment to the throat.

Mrs. A. Vliet, New Castle, Colo., writes, March 19th, 1901: "I think Ballard's Horehound Syrup a wonderful remedy, and so pleasant." 25c., 50c. and $1.00. DuBois, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Good Balance Is Shown in the National Treasury.

Richmond, Ind., Feb. 22.—Information has been given out from the office of Charles E. Shively, of this city, supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of the world, bearing on the order's finances. This shows that on January 19, 1905, the supreme master of exchequer had on hand a balance of $44,892, and that the resources of the endowment rank in excess of liabilities was $887,054.

The real estate owned by the supreme lodge at Wilmington, Del., is reported as improving some in the conditions surrounding it, with a fair prospect of a good sale in the near future.

The Lexington hotel property, in Chicago, now under the management of the board of control, will be continued under that management until such time as an acceptable lease or sale could be made of the same.

Are You Restless at Night.

And harassed by a bad cough? Use Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It will secure you sound sleep and effect a prompt and radical cure. 25c., 50c. and $1.00. DuBois, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

Eagle Shot From Moving Car.

Egypt, Mo., Feb. 23.—A gray eagle measuring seven feet eight inch from tip to tip was shot recently by George L. Frazer of this city while he was aboard a train that was backing up at the rate of 25 miles an hour and while the bird was flying. The bullet, from a 38-caliber revolver, entered the bird's neck and came out between its eyes, killing it instantly. The shot was witnessed by thirty spectators.

NEWS OF THE RIVER.

The gauge today is 15.1 feet, a rise of one-tenth. The weather is still clear and warmer.

The Dick Fowler left at 8 a. m. for Cairo.

Reports from Carrsville today by phone state that the gorge there is still holding fast. The one up about Evansville was moving last night, according to report.

The boiler was today lifted from the Mary N. and after her wheel is taken off the dismantled wreck will be raised. The boiler is the one taken from the Dick Clyde recently.

The I. N. Hook has arrived from Tennessee river with ties.

The Ashby wharfbat at Evansville was wrecked when the ice moved Monday.

Green river is lined with steamboats, tugs, tie barges and coal barges from the mouth to the headwaters waiting for the ice to move.

Capt. Alex Halliday had a ferryboat built in 1833 called Josie. Enos & Hill put the machinery on the boat, which was of propeller design. The Josie had a nine foot hold and Capt. Halliday paid for her the first trip he made going from here to New Orleans with a tow of coal. The Josie afterwards sank in deep water down south and was never found.

The ice blockade has been particularly disastrous to wharfbats along the Ohio river.

The Evansville Courier says: "Many steamboat men are interested in the communication that appeared in the Courier-Journal Saturday advocating free wharfage. The communication was widely discussed and it was generally indorsed. It is pointed out by them that the boats are tied up many months in the river because of low water and ice, and the owners as well as the crew are greatly handicapped. The city should help the boats instead of forcing the owners to pay tribute to the city. And besides the money collected from the boats is not entirely spent on the wharf. A great deal of it goes into other departments. River men are agitating the question of free wharfage and it is probable the matter will be presented to the city council at no very distant day."

Wabash ice is rotting fast and is expected to run out soon.

The gorge near Spottsville on Green river was seven miles long and made up of heavy, hard ice.

The present moderating weather extends over nearly the entire Ohio Valley district and considerable water is pouring into the Ohio and its tributaries.

The breakup is only a question of hours.

Capt. S. H. Parisot, who has been seriously ill for sometime at Vicksburg, is improving.

Ice broke the Sadie Lee loose from the wharf at Cairo and she drifted down stream a short distance but was finally landed without any damage being done to her.

An Evansville Dispatch says: "A gorge at Akin's Landing, five miles above here, today struck Newman's Water Queen, a show boat that grounded there early last summer, and the craft will probably be a total loss."

FOR THEFT.

A Well-Known Young Man Was Arrested Last Night.

Ferd Wetherington, a well-known young man of the city, charged with grand larceny, waived examination before Police Court Judge Sanders this morning and was held over to the action of the grand jury, April term circuit criminal court, under a $300 bond, but was released on his own recognizance.

Wetherington is accused of taking money and goods from Mr. D. L. VanCulin, a former employer, and some of the goods secured has been recovered.

An attempt is being made to settle the matter out of court—to secure the return of the money. Mr. VanCulin not desiring to prosecute the young man in event he gets the money back.

It is understood the goods shipped away was exchanged for curios. Detectives Will Baker and T. J. Moore assisted in working up the case.

BASEBALL DOPE.

Manager Harry Lloyd has closed a contract with the Woman's Magazine club, of St. Louis, for exhibition games before the regular season opens to be played here. This team is composed of crack professionals who adopted the peculiar name to advertise that magazine. The team will go south and play with the Cotton States teams and also Southern League teams, working north. The team will play here April 16, 17 and 18th.

Lloyd has written Paducah players he expects to use for measurements so that he can have uniforms made. The coat and home uniform will be made by Spinney, of Cincinnati, and the Spalding Co. will make the uniforms for the road.

Land, who a few weeks ago didn't know where he stood, is in no better position now, he says. He does not know if Lloyd will use him here or if St. Paul or some other team is to buy him. He stated yesterday that he wished "they would do something with him."

A contract was forwarded to J. G. Ritz, an infielder, who resides in Chicago, by Secretary Zimbro last night. He had accepted the terms made him by the local management. Ritz comes from a family of ball players, being a brother of the famous Ritz of the old Baltimore club.

"Loole" Polchow, the pitcher who was with Evansville two seasons ago has been given an offer by the local club and it is hoped he will write his name under the figures. Polchow is a stockily built young man and besides making a good record in the Three Eye and Central, was numbered among the best in the South. He was with Montgomery last season but was taken ill and went back to his home in Minnesota. He is lineal descendant of a Polish family of royal blood and is known to the fans as "Count Loole." "Chow Chow," "Pork Chops," or most anything that can be twisted into a take off on his queer sounding name. In Evansville he was called "Our Loole" by the fans and was considered by many as the best pitcher in the minor leagues.—Henderson Gleaner.

It is understood that Ned Zinkans, of Vincennes, has been chosen for the Kitty league umpire staff this year, being the first selection out of a list of seventy applicants. Zinkans was with the Kitty last season.

Vincennes Sun: Many People have the impression that Geo. Wilkinson, who played with the "Reds" last season, had been signed by Princeton. The man signed by Princeton is Jack Wilkins, a brother of George, and he is a catcher and first baseman. George will again play first for the locals.

The Vincennes team this season will have twelve men, the regular team and four pitchers, each pitcher being given two games a week. This will give each man plenty of rest, and the Sun thinks all should be able to twirl very good ball.

According to the Cairo Citizen, Percy Wilder, well known in this city and who last season pitched Cairo into a top-notch position, is in a mix-up. He signed a contract with Milwaukee, which it is reported Milwaukee destroyed. St. Paul has also drafted Wilder. Percy has written to Secretary Greaney, of the Kitty, to assist him in getting untangled.

President W. M. Hancock of the Hopkinsville baseball team, has signed a new outfielder named Norman Neighbors, from Ripley, Tenn., who played independent ball last season.

The management of the local baseball association have made arrangements for an exhibition game to be played on April 12 between the Vincennes team of the K. I. T. and the Toledo team of the American Association. It is also thought that other exhibition games will be arranged for before the opening of the season.

The local management has ordered all the men to report by the 8th of April in order to indulge in exhibition games and also to receive practice before the opening of the season.—Vincennes Commercial.

Manager Ray has signed more men for the Princeton team, three of them, DaCosta, Atkins and Beeks, from the Delta league. DaCosta was the champion catcher of the Delta league last season and is an excellent hitter. Beeks and Atkins are both pitchers.

J. "Cy" Young, a third baseman, who has been playing on the town lots in Cincinnati, is the latest wonder to be signed by Vincennes. Allice is getting some mighty promising fellows on her string. Promising are often like baseball bats.

Cairo's old-time heavy catcher, Rutledge, has been released at his own request. "Rut" was a wonder in developing young pitchers and the fans will regret to learn that he will not be with the team this season.—Cairo Bulletin.

ALL NAMED

NO PADUCAH MAN GOT PLACE AS SPECIAL AGENT.

Statistics to Be Secured All Over the State of Kentucky.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Under the terms of the census act provision was made for the collection of manufacturing statistics throughout the United States during this year. The work will be commenced within a few weeks, and the appointments of the special agents to collect these statistics have nearly all been agreed upon. Nine special agents will collect the statistics in this state of Kentucky. They are: Joseph A. Jessel, Lucius S. Caron and Ed T. Haines, of Louisville; Richard N. Elliott, of Owensboro; Jake T. Patrick, of Salyersville; Bert Browne, of Covington; Elmer J. Smith, of Newport; Alan P. Gilmour, of Lexington, and Thomas W. Cooke, of Nicholasville.

The census of manufacturers, which is taken this year, is required by the statutes to be taken every five years. It will be the business of the special agents to visit the manufacturing establishments and obtain answers to a schedule of questions, which is designed to bring out all the facts connected with the operation of the various industries. They report direct to the census bureau.

In addition to the special agents that are appointed, field agents will assist in the work. The salary is $3 a day.
